MetroList® selects Remine for its Data Analytics and Front End of Choice for its 20,000 Subscribers

Fairfax, Virginia (PRNewswire) – Remine, a real estate data and analytics company, just announced MetroList Services, Inc., signed a site license with Remine to deliver the next generation platform.

Starting soon MetroList subscribers will have access to a complete public record solution that includes all Remine's premium data solutions. In addition, MetroList subscribers will be among the first to receive Remine's MLS 2.0 suite of premium services, including property searches, chat and collaboration tools, among other things.

Remine's property information solution includes the industry's best-in-class map-based search and offers the ability for the MLS to deliver full functionality of an end-to-end agent-client workflow solution.

"We have been watching Remine's evolution as a lead gen company to what has become a single platform combining consumer and property data intelligence, specifically for real estate professionals," said Bill Miller, CEO of MetroList Services, Inc. "We are thrilled to launch Remine Pro version to all of our subscribers as an additional resource that combines MLS, public records, and predictive analytics, utilizing a state-of-the-art graphical interface," added Miller.

"Agents are craving more options to view and access data in their MLS. We are thrilled to partner with MetroList and are committed to providing their Brokers and Agents with modern workflows," says Leo Pareja, President of Remine.
